

A3 Communications Becomes A Cisco Advanced Collaboration Architecture Specialized Partner

COLUMBIA, SC (November 25, 2013) — To support the expanding role of collaboration solutions that leverage the intelligence of the network, A3 Communications announced today that it has achieved the Advanced Collaboration Architecture Specialization from Cisco. This specialization recognizes A3 Communications as having fulfilled the training requirements to sell, design and deploy comprehensive Cisco Collaboration Architecture solutions.

Cisco Advanced Collaboration Architecture Specialized Partners work with new and existing technologies to align components of this architecture with their customers' strategic goals, helping transform business processes, boost organizational efficiency and accelerate the time to market.

To earn this coveted specialization, an A3 account manager, architecture systems engineer, field engineer and four Cisco Qualified Specialists passed more than 100 hours of training courses and multiple exams. Testing affirmed knowledge in selling, designing, installing and supporting collaboration architecture.

Brian Thomas, President of A3 Communications, looks forward to offering this program's competitive advantages to A3's clients. "As a Cisco Premier Partner, with additional specializations in Advanced Routing and Switching as well as in Advanced Wireless LAN, our recognized expertise in Advanced Collaboration Architecture allows us to offer our customers a fully integrated Cisco solution."
